SUMMARY

Innovative B.Tech student passionate about real-world solutions leveraging technology. With hands-on experience in full-stack web development, I founded Pennyfy—an intuitive personal finance tracker as well as HelpingHands—an engaging crowdfunding platform promoting community support. My technical expertise covers a multitude of programming languages and frameworks, including Java, JavaScript, HTML/CSS, React.js, Node.js, and MongoDB. Recognized through external certifications from leaders like IBM and HP, I am also actively involved in hackathons to further bolster my skills. With effective team collaboration and problem-solving abilities, I aim to make substantial impacts within dynamic environments.
